Hi Donald,

I have heard of another site that is about to be started here in Mid Beds, someone has bought a field here in Mid Beds and are proceeding to sell off plots, but are not allowing anyone to move onto the land until all plots are sold.

They will then all move onto the land together.

Also there is a site that has started up in (Sawston) just off the M11 between Cambridge and Royston.

They have plotted it up into 8 plots and have moved on the same day as submitting a planning application.

Yes people are frightened of the thought of new Laws coming into force mostly Irish Famies but the English are also starting to worry.

The Sheridan family have moved into Cottenham just outside of Cambridge and bought up a complete site of private plots, which has permission for around 75% of the plots.

The Council have visited and told them to submit an application for the rest and they will more than likely be passed.

The family is know proceeding to buy up all remaining ground and have also approached the owner of the nearest house with the intention of buying Cliff
